A GUNNER INSTANTLY KILLED.

ACCIDENT OCCURS AT THE GATES OF THE ARLINGTON.

Cannon Had Not Been Sufficiently Washed Out Before the Second Charge Was Put in—Crowd Becomes Panic Stricken.

Washington Post.

Crushed and disfigured by the impact of the breech block of a burst ing cannon William T. Tooley, a corporal of artillery was instantly killed during the firing of the national salute outside the gates of Arlington at noon yesterday. Blame, if blame there be, rests upon the unfortunate victim himself, for he was gunner of the piece, and the fire left in the breech, to which alone the premature discharge can be attributed, was an evidence of the carelessness on the part of the man, who not only paid with his life the penalty of his dereliction, but checked with his body the deadly flight of the metal mass which went hurling directly toward the horses and other men of the gun detachment behind the piece, and the great crowd of spectators gathered yards away.

Two guns of the Fourth Battery, United States Field Artillery, stationed at Washington Barracks, were ordered to Fort Meyer yesterday to discharge at noon the twenty-guns that would salute the opening of the memorial ceremonies at Arlington. The cannon was placed in position outside the west gate of Arlington, pointed toward the southwest. The caissons and horses, six to each, with those members of the detachment not cannoners, took positions eighteen yards to the rear of their respective pieces. There was to be an interval of twenty seconds between the firing of each gun, which made it necessary to swab out, load, and fire each piece every forty seconds. Corp. Tooley was gunner of gun No. 2, of which Lieut. Carter was in command. The charges were about two pounds of black powder each .

When the bugler standing at the Arlington Mansion blew the notes of the salute signal they were taken up by a bugler with the artillery command. Immediately Gun No. 1 fired the first of the blanks of the salute. Twenty-seconds later Gun Uo. 2, Tooley's fired the second. Gun No. 1 fired third and No. 2 the fourth without unusual occurence. Cannoneer Young, of Gun No. 1 stood ready with his lanyard to fire the fifth gun, but before the order to fire was given Gun No. 2 had beleched forth flames from both ends, and in the the heavy smoke of the black powder, the formy of Corp Tooley was seen lying on its face fifteen yards behind his piece.

After firing the fourth gun, Tooley stepped forward and unscrewed the breech block while the barrel was swabbed out by another man. Tooley was supposed to wipe the inside of the breech block with a wet sponge to extinguish any fire that might remain. Then he took the powder, pushed it in the breech, and closed the block. Just as he stood bending forward, his hands about to screw the block fast on the piece, the explosion occurred. It tore the block from its hinges and sent it fair into the gunner's shoulder. His ribs were crushed in and the metal tore its way down his frame, ripping and dismembering in its flight. The man was killed instantaneously, the shock of the impact throwing Tooley's head forward with a snap that broke his neck.

Young glanced toward the gun which had fired out of turn and saw what had happened. In a few seconds his order to fire came, and for the rest of the salute Gun No. 1 fired at twenty second intervals.

The perfect discipline of the artillerymen was in evidence at once. Not a man at gun No. 1 stirred from his position. They continued to load and fire just twice as fast as before the second piece had been disabled. The crew of gun No. 2 had picked up Tooley's body, placed it on the caisson, and the horses were dragging it away toward Fort Meyer hospital at a gallop before the sixth gun of the salute was fired.

Among the crowd that witnessed the terrible scene many women became panic-stricken,and the whole throng attempted to rush in upon the artillerymen. They were beaten back by the officials of the disabled gun, and the prompt removal o fthe dead artilleryman's body did much to induce the spectators to resume their former distance from the firing party.

There were six horses and five men standing eighteen yards directly behind Tooley. He was blown to their very feet. Had not his body intervened, the breech block would have been torn through these men and animals,and probably continued its course through the deep rank of men, women, children, grouped curiously about the field.

Corp. Tooley was thirty-five years of age and had recently re-enlisted. He had served in the heavy artillery. His home was in Pennsylvania, between Scranton and Wilkesbarre. His body will be interred with military honors at Arlington today.

BOERS STILL STRONG.

Their Latest Attack Carries Dismay to Englishmen Who Long for Peace.

London, May 31.—The announcement during the past few days that the Boers were displaying increased activity in several parts of South Africa have been followed by a cablegram from General Kitchener which is discouraging to those who have been persistently expecting the collapse of burgher opposition. There has been a severe engagement between the Boers and the British at Vlakfontein with heavy losses on both sides, indicating that the burghers are not only not demoralized as has been frequently reported, but that they are still dangerously aggressive. The report from General Kitchener to the War Office is the most unpropropitious received for some time and has been the subject of a great deal of regretful comment today.

The dispatch from General Kitchener follows:

"Delarey attacked Brigadier General Dixon at Vlakfontein yesterday and severe fighting ensued. The Boers were eventually driven off with heavy losses, leaving 35 dead on the field. I regret to announce that our casualties were severe. We had 174 killed and wounded. Five officers were killed.'

The unusual number of officers slain in the combat shows that the bughers have not deteriorated in their marksmanship, and the list of the killed is awaited here with considerable anxiety.

It is taken from the dispatch that the Boers were finally forced to retire in disorder and that they carried away numbers of their wounded when they retreated. The details of the engagement are awaited with intense interest although it is possible that the War Office will decide not to make them public when they are recived.from General Kitchener.

The Mayor's Court.

In the mayor's court yesterday afternoon two negro women contributed $7 a piece for disorderly conduct. Ike Clapp aided the city with $7.90 for disorderly conduct, and the South Greensboro boys who engaged in a scrap at the lawn party Thursday night were assessed $2.90 each.

To Exchange Pulpits.

Rev. C. E. Hodgin went to Reidsville this afternoon, and will preach there tomorrow, occupying the pulpit of Rev. D. I. Craig. Mr. Craig will occupy the pulpit at Westminster church tomorow, both morning and night.

ADDITION PERSONAL.

Miss Mamne McGirt, of Wilmington, who has been visiting Miss Mozelle Andrews, on Ashe street, left this afternoon for Fayetteville to visit friends before her return home.

Miss Catherine Pace, of Wilson, who has been visiting Miss Bell, on North Elm street, left this afternoon for Durham to attend Trinity College Commencement.

Miss Mary Scott Monroe, of Goldsboro, who has been visiting Miss Mabel Glenn, on West Market street. left this afternoon for Durham to visit friends.

THE COUNT COMPLETE.

Population of the Country is Stated to Be 76,303,387.

Washington, May 31.—The Census Bureau this afternoon made its final announcement of the population of the United States as recorder by the census of 1900. The population of the country is 76,303,387.

A previous announcement, made Novemeber 27, last, placed the population at 76,304,799, but, as stated at the time, this figure was subject to change, because full reports of a number of persons in the military and naval service of the United States abroad had not been made. These and certain alterations caused by the discovery of frauds in Maryland and other places bring the total down to 76,303,387 as above stated. This figure includes the population of Alaska, Hawaii, Indian Territory and Indian Reservations.

The bureau today issued the first half of its final report of the various statistics of population. It is in the form of a monograph and makes up about five hundred pages. The other portion of the final report on population will be issued during the early fall, putting the entire volume in the hands of the public at least four years in advance of any previous census.

The census officials feel much gratified that they are enabled to give these complete facts to the public in less than cne year since the enumeration began.

The Sweetest Girl.

Delanco, N. J., May 30.—There's evidently a love story in the dramatic suicide of a well-dressed man,which Freeholder S. P. Jones, witnessed as he looked out over the Delaware about 7:30 tonight. The suicide was probably J. Wilson McMahon, of Atlantic City, where he left the "sweetest girl."

The lawn of Mr. Jones' residence slopes down to the river about half a mile above here,and after finishing his supper he strolled out to enjoy the sunset. As he scanned the placid water his eye rested upon a man standing in a little bateau, apparently in deep meditation, not many yards from shore.

Suddenly while his boat drifted with the tide, the man took off his light coat laid it carefully on the seat, looked toward the then setting sun, and, putting his hands together after the fashion of an expert diver, mounted the gunwale and plunged head first into the river.

Mr. Jones watched for the man to come up, but finding that he failed to do so, summoned his wife and fowd out to the boat. Beside the coat was a pair of blue and white striped cuffs and light Fedora hat. Taking the boat ashore, Mr. Jones found the pockets of the coat to contain a small pocketbook and a picture of a rather handsome woman,upon the margin of which was written in a bold hand:

"The sweetest girl in Atlantic City—Jack."

In the pocket book was a new $1 bill; a number of cards bearing the name of J. Wilson McMahon; an Atlantic City time table, a card of Kashiro Kodama and one of Robert Mellamine, Jr., 138 North Massachusetts avenue, Atlantic City. Another picture of a girl in a reclining position was in the pocketboook and a letter from the firm of Yamanaka & Co., dealers in Japanese are objects. Steel Pier Block, Atlantic City, dated October 2, 1900, and recommending J. W. McMahon as being a capable, efficient and honest employe and that they released him only because of going out of business.

The authorities are searching for the body and Mr. Jones is making inquiry with the view of finding some one who may be able to throw some more light on the suicide.

Killed Herself in Church.

Indianapolis, May 30.—Miss Agnes Long, a prepossessing young woman of Sycamore, Howard county, went to the Methodist church in that place last evening, presumably to practise on the organ. Several hours later she was found kneeling beside the minister's chair, upon which her head had fallen. A revolver was lying by her side. She had shot herself through the heart. In a note found on the organ she had left directions regarding her burial, naming the organist, the minister who should conduct the funeral services and the singers.

She had failed to pass in all her studies at a recent examination and this is the assumed cause of her suicide.

W. C. T. U. DEPARTMENT.

The Beer Drinker.

In discussing the use of beer as a substitute for the stronger alcoholic liquors, The Scientific American emphasizes its injurious effect as follows:

For some years a decided inclination has been apparent all over the country to give up the use of whiskey and other strong alcohols, using as a substitute beer and other compounds. This is evidently founded on the idea that beer is not harmful, and contains a large amount of nutriment; also that bitters may have some medicinal qualities which will neutralize the alcohol it contains.

These theories are without confirmation in the observation of physicians. The use of beer is found to produce a species of degeneration of all all the organs; profound and deceptive fatty deposits, diminished circulation, local inflamation of the liver and kidneys are constantly present.

In appearance the beer drinker may be the picture of halth, but in reality he is most incapable of resisting disease. A slight injury, a severe cold or a shock to the body or mind will commonly provoke acute disease, ending fatally. Compared with inebriates who use different kinds of alcohol, he is more incurable and more generally diseased. The constant use of beeer every day gives the system no recuperation, but steadily lowers the vital forces. It is our observation that beer drinking in this country produces the very lowest kind of inebriety, closely allied to criminal insanity. The most dangerous ruffians in our large cities are beer drinkers.

A farmer ninety-one years of age, living out of doors, and working moderately is reported as an example of the harmlessness of pure whiskey. He has drunk a pint of spirits daily for sixty years, and is apparently hale and heart, never having had any illness. His example has been freely quoted by several of the liquor journals and by defenders of moderate drinking. A physician living in the vicinity tells the following facts:

The man was of inferior intelligence and inclined to follow very methodical habits of living. While the effects of his drinking were not prominent in his appearance they were evident in his children. Of his seven children two died in infancy, one became epileptic and died at fifteen, one other is feeble-minded, and all of the others are dissolute, and hard drinkers. All are decidedly inferior both mentally and physically.

The writer recently overheard a scrap of a conversation in front of a saloon something like this. A tall, lanky man, shabbily dressed was saying, "Well I'm independent, I don't take no draggin off anybouy." His wife was then at home working oven the sewing machine, trying to make a living for him, herself and nine little children, while he did next to nothing and came home drunk on an average of twice a week. Evidently while he did not take much "dragging" he did quite a lot of it—dragging his wife and children towards the poorhouse. If they never reach their destination it won't be his fault.

The Blood HEALTHY OR DISEASED

When there is a natural and healthy circulation of the blood, the entire quantity, estimated at one-eighth the weight of the body, passes through the heart every five minutes. This rapid flow of the blood through the system prevents the entrance of disease germs and impurities of every description. It filters out all that is not necessary or good for the growth and development of the body and nourishing and strengthening the muscles, tissues, nerves and bones. But, unfortunately, few persons can rightly claim an absolutely pure blood supply and perfect and unpolluted circulation, and in consequence are exposed to innumerable diseases. Contagious Blood Poison, the greatest enemy to mankind, enters the system through the blood, and Cancer, Scrofula, Rheumatism, Catarrh, Eczema, Salt Rheum, Psoriasis, Tetter—in fact the majority of human ailments—are caused by poisons or humors that are engendered and fostered in a sluggish and impoverished blood. Old sores, chronic ulcers and rheumatic pains are common, especially among old people, whose blood naturally grows thin and pale because of the lack of the red corpuscles that give color and strength to youthful blood. Sallow complexions and rough, oily skins evidence some constitutional or blood trouble, which salves, lotions, powders nor any external treatment can cure. Diseases that originate in the blood, whether they manifest themselves as ulcers, tumors, itching eruptions, muscular or bone pains, require a tonic and blood purifier such as S. S. S., which not only antidotes and neutralizes blood poisons and humors, but possesses health-giving tonic properties that no other blood medicine does. It goes down to the very foundation of the disease and eliminates from the system everything of a poisonous character or that obstructs and clogs the circulation. It builds up and imparts new strength and vitality to the old innutritious blood, and when the arteries and veins are once more filled with new rich blood, the general health begins to improve, muscles grow stronger, and sores and eruptions of every kind disappear.

The Blood is the Source of All Strength

Polluted Blood Breeds Disease

S. S. S. is the only guaranteed purely vegetable blood purifier, and the purest and most reliable in all blood diseases. It has been tested in thousands of cases during the past fifty years and is more popular today than ever. ### A PERPETUAL CONTRACT.

The Chiropodist Acknowledged That His Work Was Only Temporary.

"Did you ever hear of a corn contract?" said Arthur Campbell, manager of a down-town hotel, to a communicative guest, who had just put his name down on the register, according to the Chicago Chronicle

"What do you mean, another Leiter deal?" asked the new arrival.

"No, I mean one of those corn contracts which a chiropodist enters into," said the manager of the hostelry.

"Such a contract as a chiropodist makes?" inquired the guest. "Why, I can't understand what you are driving at."

"Well, I'll explain, then," said Campbell. "I had an exceedingly bad pain in my left foot last week. It hurt so that a doctor stopping at my home and others could do nothing to alleviate the soreness, which I found was the result of a large corn that had been on my toe for a month.

"I determined to have it eradicated by a chiropodist. I passed down Wells street one afternoon and spied the sign of a German doctor, which said something about 'huehneraugen.'

"I went in, investigated, and found he was willing to relieve me of my troubles by removing the growth.

"He proceeded to perform the operation, and when everything was finished he asked me to sign a contract for the work of removing the corn right along. He said it was likely to come back again and that such pacts were made occasionally, but I did not want to think anything more about it and refused. I never heard of such a thing before."

WINE OF CARDUI

Woman's Crowning Virtue.

BELTON, Mo., July 27.

For years I suffered terrible pains every month and my doctor told me I could not be cured except by an operation. I felt I could not submit to that and was so despondent I had given up all hopes of a cure. My husband insisted on my trying Wine of Cardui and at last thank God I did try it. Last month I did not have a pain, and did all my work, which I had not done in seven years.

MRS. MINNIE LITTLE.

McELREE'S Wine of Cardui

Modesty is the crowning virtue of American women. It is the trait that all mankind admires. A modest woman is the most pleasing of all created things. Because of this becoming virtue thousands of women prefer to suffer untold miseries rather than confide their troubles to a physician, and to even think of submitting to an examination is revolting. They can't get their own consent to an operation. Wine of Cardui permits sensitive women to retain their modesty. With it they can cure "female troubles" in the quiet of their own rooms. If special treatment is required they can write to the Advisory Department of the Chattanooga Medicine Co., and their letters will be promptly answered by women trained in the cure of womanly weaknesses and irregularities. There should be no hesitation. Delayed treatment means a chronic condition. The longer postponed the harder to cure.

THE CASE OF GENERAL PORTER.

Col. Alexander K. McClure, who has lately retired from a long career of notable journalism, writes in the Philadelphia North American, the history of the case of General Fitzjohn Porter, who has just died. Nothing can show better the riot of vindictiveness, hatred, and the malicious conduct that reigned among some of the leaders of the war party of the North than this dishonorable story. It shows that their hatred was not confined towards the South. Col. McClure says:

Of all the general officers of the army of the Potomac Fitzjohn Porter stood out almost alone in achievement in the flame of battle until the time of his arrest and degradation by a court-martial that was organized to convict. He was the only one of McClellan's lieutenants who fought three yitched battles in which he alone commanded, and won the admiration of the country and the respect of the highest military authorities for the mingled heroism and skill he exhibited at Mechanicsville, at Gaines' Mills and at Malvern Hill. He returned from the Peninsula with his corps after McClellan's retreat to the James river, and came under the command of Pope, whose bombast was logically equaled by his confusion in commanding in a great battle, in which he was outgeneraled at every point, and finally forced to retreat into the entrenchments at Washington.

In the many erratic and confusing orders given by General Pope during the second Battle of Bull Run was the one delivered to General Porter directing him to make an immediate movement that Porter saw could accomplish only the defeat and destruction of his command without affording any relief whatever to the other corps engaged in the action. He was a true soldier, and he had the courage to be just to to the army entrusted to his care. Pope's disastrous camapign required a sacrifice, and the question was whether Pope himself should be justly judged and held to strict acountability as an utterly incompetent commander or whether some better soldier should be chosen to save Pope from utter disgrace.

Secretary Stanton was then the ima placable personal and military foe of McClellan, and he carried his vindictive hatred to every general who was believed to be in sympathy with McClellan. Porter had disobeyed the order of Pope, who was at the time his commander, as many great generals in the history of the wars of the world have disobeyed orders when the officer knew that the order was given in grave misapprehension of existing conditions; and Porter was chosen as the sacrifice for Pope, and with the double purpose of shielding Pope and breaking the power of McClellan in the Army of the Potomac that so devotedly worshipped him, notwithstanding his military failures.

Porter was ordered under arrest immediately after the second battle of Bull Run, but when McClellan marched to meet Lee at Antietam he asked that General Porter be relieved and ordered to join him. The request was granted, and Porter did heroic service on the bloody hills of Antietam, for which President Lincoln personally thanked him when he visited the battlefield some days thereafter. The charge remained on record against him, however, and after McClellan had been redieved of the command of the army by General Burnside, Porter was ordered before a court-martial that was convened on the 27th of November, 1862.

The trial was a protracted one, in which the intense bitterness of those in control of the War Department was developed to a degree of fearful intensity. At that time Secretary Stanton was as imperious as Caesar in the exercise of his own prerogatives, and often aggressively encroached upon the prerogatives of other departments, not even excepting the Presidnt. He organized the court to convict. Every member of the court well understood the duty to which he had been assigned, and on the 21st day of anuary, 1863, after nearly two months of delay, he was convicted, dismissed from the army and forever disqualified from holding any office of trust or profit under the government of the United States."

This reads much like a chapter from Medaeval history, but every word of it is the truth. Can it be wondered that men, capable of such conduct towards a man who had saved their army, should act like savages towards an enemy? Col. McClure further tells the story of how, one friend after another taking up his cause, General Porter, was at last after 22 years time vindicated:

The intense bitterness that entered into the conviction and dismissal of Porter ruled in Washington until after the defeat of McClellan for the Presidency, in 1864. The friends of Porter then grew stronger each year, and President Grant was vainly appealed to by prominent men of all parties and by various legislative resolutions for a hearing of the case, but President Hayes finally appointed an advisory board, consisting of Generals John H. Schofield, Alfred H. Terry and George W. Petty, to review the whole case. These officers stood very high in the army in the estimation of the country, and all felt that their judgment, whatever it might be, would be one that could be accepted. General Porter was most able defended in that trial by John C. Bullit, of this city, whose speech in support of his client is accepted as one of the greatest legal arguments ever presented before any tribuna in the country. The result was bunal in the country. The result was a unanimous judgment not only of acquting General Porter of all blame, but positively commending him for the military courage and skill he exhibited in the very act for which he has been condenmned.

Immediately upon the finding of the advisory board President Arthur remitted so much of the sentnece of the court-martial as denied him citizenship, but a bill for his relief failed in its passage by Congress. The next Congress passed a bill for the full restoration of General Porter to his position in the army, but it was vetoed by President Arthur on technical grounds. The suceeding Congress passed another bill for his restoration, which was proved by President Cleveland, and on the 7th of August, 1886, twenty-three years after he had been so unjustly degraded, he was restored to his original rank of colonel in the United States army.

It is noteworthy that the complete vindication of General Porter came only when President Cleveland, a man who did justice to the South, came to office. The old bloody shirt brigade could do justice neither to the South or to its own people.

Always something nice and appetizing at J. W. Scott & Co's. This time it is Tarbell's cheese, Guilford College Butter, and country hams.

If your residence, stables or outhouses need a good coat of paint—paint that will wear well, the Undine, handled by the Odell Hardware Company, will come up to all requirements.

Messrs. Harry-Belk Brothers Company continue to weild the knife with exceeding dexterity, and it is with a merry tune, it cuts and slashes the prices all along the line. An excursion to Greensboro and their store will repay any one.

The Gate City Laundry is making an excellent record as a busy, hustling establishment, doing strictly first-class work. While this firm makes a sepeciality of Gloss Finish, they are well prepared to accommodate those who prefer the other kind, and can do it just as well as any one else.

If Mr. J. N. Leak continues to increase his carpet business at the present rate, it will not be very long before he will be obliged to move into a larger house. In fact he already needs it. This week he is shipping six carpets to High Point, while the Philogian Society of Elon College, has engaged him to furnish and lay new carpeting and hang portieres their elegant hall to be ready for their commencement next week.

Another negro woman, who closely resembled the woman who committed the deed was located yesterday afternoon, but she was able to prove an alibi.

PROGRESSIVE COURTSHIP.

Young Men Display Considerable Proficiency—An Enjoyable Occasion

A reception was given at the residence of the Misses Reid, on West Market street, last night, by several young gentlemen of the city, complimentary to the visiting young ladies in the city.

The evening was much enjoyed by all who were so fortunate as to be present. Miss Minnie Lyon played several selections on the violin, and vocal music of a high order was rendered by Miss Mozelle Andrews.

One of the most enjoyable features of the evening was a game of progressive courtship, in the playing of which, it is said, the young men displayed considerable proficiency.

About 11 o'clock the young folks were ushered into the spacious, and beautifully decorated dining hall, and served with delicious refreshments.

Miss Mary Stroud, of Florence, S C., received the prize for giving the best answer to the courtship, a hand some cup and saucer.

Those present were:

Miss Catherine Pace, Wilson, N. C., and Mr. Bernie Gilmer.

MR. BUNDICK LAST NIGHT.

He Discusses the Temperance Phase of Good Citizenship.

The address delivered by Mr. W. T. Bundick last evening at the First Presbyterian church was a masterly and eloquent argument against the liquor traffic. The subject was "Good Citizenship—the Temperance Phase of it." The speaker said that the service of the government is part of the service of God. That Christ had a deep sense of his responsibility, as a citizen when he said "Render to Caesar the things that are Caesar's and to God the things that are God's" and when he sent Peter to catch the fish in whose mouth was to be found the coin with which to pay the tribute money for them both. Mr. Bundick said that while the influence of the machine politician is bad the negative co-operation of professedly Christian citizens is infinite by worse.

He stated that while it might seem parodoxical, our nation it a republic, and yet is ruled by a king—the tyrant alcohol. Waxing pathetic he reminded us that while the statistician can estimate the number of those who fill drunkard's graves the record of cheated lives caused by the tyrant alcohol, whose subjects, willingly and unwillingly, pay tax to maintain his souvereignty, will never be known until all secrets are revealed.

To attempt to give a reveiw of the address is unsatisfactory; one must needs hear Mr. Bundick for himself in order to appreciate the logical, eloquent and convincing argument of this Southern orator.

FOR FLOOD SUFFERERS.

Send Your Contributions to the Telegram Office.

Yesterday's Telegram contained a telegram to the mayor of Greensboro, from Mr. J. A. Summers, mayor of Johnson City, Tenn., telling of the appalling condition of the flood sufferers in Mitchell county, North Carolina, and stating that aid was asked for by the residents of the devastated districts. Johnson City is the only available point from which to reach the sufferers, and Mr. Summers offers to transport any contributions that may be sent to them.

Greensboro has always responded nobly to an appeal of this nature, and she will, no doubt, respond as liberally in this case, as she has done to others in the past. Two subscriptions have already come in as follows:

| Mr. A. C. Patterson, | 5.00 |

The lovely dining room decorations showed the College colors, white and green, while the large parlors looked unusually handsome with their flowers, plants, and handsome women. Prof. W. F. Alderman, Mrs. Lucy Robertson and Miss Gena Bumpass met with their old pupils, adding greatly to the joy of the reunited class. Mrs. Cotton, of the class of 1863, was also present with her usual charming presence.

Quick Step Business Tunes.

And how the people are dancing to the music of low prices inaugurated by us! Hundreds flocked around our counters this week and all were charmed with our panic prices; and its no use talking our Periodical Reduction Sale has created quite an uproar in the camp. But just as well take the medicine quiet for we propose to cut under the prices of anybody. As stock taking time is near at hand we are determined to cut to the quick many lines of Spring and Summer Goods; this then will be a reduction sale not only in name, but in reality, and you'll never have another chance to secure Shoes, Clothing, Dry Goods, Hats, Gents' Furnishings, etc., at such

If people only knew what we know about Kodol Dyspepsia Cure, it would be used in nearly every household, as there are few people who do not suffer from a feeling of fullness after eating, belching, flatulence, sour stomach or waterbrash, caused by indigestion or dyspepsia. A preparation such as Kodol Dyspepsia Cure, which, with no aid from the stomach, will digest your food, certainly can't help but do you good.

AMERICAN WEDS COUNTESS.

Colonel John M. Read's Bride Was Mlle. Alix De Foras, Daughter of Count De Foras.

Announcement was made at Albany, N. Y., the other day of the marriage of Col. John Meredith Read to Countess Alix De Foras. Mlle. De Foras is the daughter of Count Amedie De Foras of the Castle of Thuyset, in Savoy, France. Count De Foras was for many years the grand marshal of the court of Bulgaria and a great political power in that country. He resigned the position when the child of the prince was forced to become a member of the Greek church, as he represented the Catholic party. He afterward retired to the castle of Thuyset, where he devoted himself to his books until his dath.

Col. Read is the son of Gen. John Meredith Read, adjutant general at the outbreak of the civil war, consul general of this country to France during the Franco-German war and commune and acting consul general for Germany; then minister to Greece, in which post he distinguished himself. His grandfather, John Meredith Read, LL. D., was chief justice and one of the most distinguished lawyer-jurists of Pennsylvania.

MONUMENT TO GEN. HARRISON

Steps Taken at Indianapolis to Honor the Memory of the Late Ex-President.

A systematic movement was inaugurated at Indianapolis, Ind., the other day for honoring Benjamin Harrison with a public monument. The Commercial club, of which Gen. Harrison was a member, will act in the matter as a body, and it is understood that the board of trade and other civic bodies will join in the movement.

It is intended that the monument shall represent the sentiments of all the people of the state, and not the members of any political party. The first suggestion was for a statue to be placed near the soldiers' monument in Monument place, but the park is already crowded, and it is now proposed that it be erected in front of the new federal building, which will be begun in a short time. It is believed that congress will make an appropriation to aid in erecting the monument.

Demosthenes

Could Not Speak

until he had cured himself of an impediment in his speech.

The finest flight of oratory may sound like the mumblings of an insane man, without a clear, distinct and forcible delivery.

So your printed message, however important, vital and interesting it may be, can suffer so from slip-shod, careless, blotty printing that it will fail to deliver its message.

Bad printing is to your advertising what defective, indistinct enuciation is to an orator. You owe it to youself to say the best that you have, and to say it the best that you can.

Our printing is appropriate to every purpose because there is no sort of printing which should not be done as well as it can be done.

Estimates of all kinds cheerfully and promptly given.

New ideas in printing suggested, or new suggestions met half way.

You can come to us, or we will go to you.

We go anywhere for business.

BABY'S BUSINESS

A healthy baby is comfortable; and that is enough for a baby. His business in life is to grow.

Aside from acute diseases, his food is the cause of most of his troubles. But Scott's emulsion of cod-liver oil delivers him from it.

He isn't sick; only a little hitch, somewhere, in his machine for turning food into growth.

It is a great thing to do, for a baby, to help him over a hitch with mere food—the emulsion is food that has the tact to get there.

The tact to get there is medicine.

We'll send you a little to try, if you like.
